Smooth new stretch of Rt. 26 draws praise, speed warnings

By ALISON ALOISIO

They miss the familiar trees, and worry about faster traffic, but most people concerned seem pleased with the quality of the work on the Route 26 improvement project.

The widening of the stretch of road from P.H. Chadbourne's to the Locke Mills Market has been going on since March.

MDOT resident engineer Ernie Gallant said last week the work, done largely by Farm Brothers Construction of Brighton, had gone smoothly.

"The abutters were all cooperative and helpful, too," he said.

Speed worries

But Gallant said property owners and their guests should now realize that traffic will likely be moving faster. Prior to the improvements, the narrow, more winding section of road had made for slower travel.

"People should be reminded to check as they're coming out of their driveway," he said.

Gallant also said there are two prime passing stretches in the new section of road -- a feature he said this winter's skier traffic may find irresistible after following slower traffic up through Bryant Pond.

Rabbit Road resident Nesta Littlefield praised the way traffic was handled at the construction site this summer, but she, too, is concerned about speed.

She said entering Route 26 from her road will be more difficult.

"When the skiers come, that will tell," she said.

Littlefield also said the left turn coming from Locke Mills onto the Rabbit Road requires almost a com-

Bethel airport authority proposed

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Faced with increasing activity at the Old Dixie Airport, and the growing complexity of managing the facility, the Bethel selectmen are asking voters to approve the formation of a new board to handle day-to-day administration of the airport and Airport Industrial Park.

An ordinance authorizing the establishment of a "Bethel Airport Authority" is expected to go to a referendum vote sometime this fall.

The ordinance is intended "to create an administrative authority to assist the Town and the municipal officers with the ownership, control, maintenance and operation of the airport and the Airport Industrial Park."

The referendum will also ask voters to approve a funding mechanism for both the airport and the airport authority.

The town's attorney, Geoff Hole, recommended that voters be asked to sign off on the funding arrangements.

"There has been so much confusion over the airport he felt it should go back to voters," said Nancy Schleper. Thursday, Schleper, the town planning assistant, has been working as a staff person for the advisory group.

Bob Chadbourne, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, urged that the financial situation be addressed forthrightly -- and that voters be presented with handouts showing clearly what costs and incomes are associated with the airport.

"There's a lot of people who think the airport is a burden to the town," he said. "We need to present a clean

Supporters of trails effort will trudge onward

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The question at hand was simple: Should this group continue?

The dozen or so trail enthusiasts who showed up Monday at the Riverview Motel agreed unanimously the local "greenways" effort should go forward, but they acknowledged that results to date have fallen far short of what most were hoping for when they began meeting last fall.

"We certainly have things we have talked about that haven't come to fruition," said Steve Wight, of the Friends of the Androscoggin.

The most evident unmet goal was the development of a formal trail system and map for the area. The group had initially planned a three-part process: a trails inventory, landowner contact and writing an ethics statement for trail users.

But little of that came to pass -- in large part because of landowner reluctance to having their properties identified as part of a formal trail system.

"We tried it, it was just too hard to do," said Julie Isbell of the Appalachian Mountain Club.

A second initiative, a trail along the local river's edge between Bethel and the Route 2 rest area, was also stalled -- again because of difficulty obtaining landowner permission.

Those who showed up Monday included representatives of the Bethel Conservation Commission, Friends of the Androscoggin, Mahoosuc Land Trust, Sunday River Ski Resort, Outward Bound, Bethel and Newry snowmobile clubs and the Maine Snowmobile Association, AmeriCorp, the White Mountain National Forest, and the Appalachian Mountain Club.

But conspicuously absent were any large local landowners or four-wheel-drive enthusiasts. Both groups had been represented at earlier meetings, but neither had really warmed to the trails initiative.

The landowners were reluctant to implicitly give up the authority to say who used their land, and both they and the jeepers argued that local public lands should be opened further before encouraging increased recreational use of private land.

Focus tightened

But the trail boosters who showed up Monday were not willing to turn in the towel.

"There's an ebb and flow to these projects. We have to keep going for those times when things are ready to happen," said Marcel Polak.

Currently executive director of the Mahoosuc Land Trust, Polak is leaving that position this week to take a newly created AMC position as coordinator for the upper Androscoggin River Valley.

He has been facilitating the local

Some say Ethel Bisbee's visage is too stern for today's CPS kids

By ALISON ALOISIO

Bethel elementary students will once again pass beneath the stern gaze of Ethel Bisbee, but some district officials are worried the experience may be too much for the smaller children to handle.

A portrait of the late elementary school teacher hung for some time in the hallway of the school of the same name, and has remained there since the school was closed several years ago.

The question of what to do with the Douglas Bane painting came up when the SAD44 board held its meeting Monday night at the former school.

Several board members favored hanging it in the primary wing of the Crescent Park School. Bisbee taught the lower grades for many years, with her teaching career lasting from 1916 until 1963. She died in 1972.

Ray Harrington of Greenwood, a former student of Bisbee's, said, "The younger children were foremost in her heart ... that's where she belongs, and that's where she would want to be."

But others worried that the stern expression on Bisbee's face would be upsetting to the younger children. Several said they knew of children who had been frightened to go into the hallway at the Ethel Bisbee School, for fear of passing beneath the painting.

"It wasn't Ethel Bisbee herself that frightened the children. It was that rendering of the portrait. It isn't conducive to the type of classroom she had, or today's classroom."

Going into the hallway was a scary experience," said Adult Education director Cathy Newell.

Bethel director Linda Gamble said the painting should be given to the Bethel Historical Society.

"It belongs at the historical society, where it will be appreciated. It doesn't fit with the design of the (CPS) building," she said.

Willing workers needed at gazebo

The call has gone out for strong hands and backs at the gazebo project on the Bethel common.

An illness in the family of one of the volunteer workers has left the project short handed and threatened the target completion date of Sept. 17, according to organizer David Thurston.

Anyone with some spare time to devote would be welcomed, Thurston said, and a knowledge of basic construction techniques would be a big plus, as would personal tools.

Construction hours are flexible, Thurston said. Volunteers are asked to call Tom Remington at 824-2808 for more details.

It has also been suggested that a time capsule be built into the gazebo, Thurston said, and anyone who knows anything about how to go about such an undertaking is asked to call him at 364-7921 (days).

CHINA IS STILL BARBARIC

To the Editor:

As a native son of Bethel I was very interested to learn of an event scheduled by the Bethel Historical Society—the memorial recognition of Annie Gould which was held last Sunday afternoon. I had not known of Miss Gould's missionary work and martyrdom, so made plans to attend the event. It was very worthwhile.

At Riverside Cemetery the B.H.S. director, Stanley Howe, noted how Miss Gould had gone out to China as a Christian missionary just before the Turn of the Century, only to die (along with many other Westerners) at the hands of the Chinese zealots of the Boxer Rebellion. A plaque commemorating her life and sacrifice was brought to Bethel by members of her mother's family. (It had been originally on display at the old Portland "Seamen's Friends" Church prior to the demolition of that structure.) The plaque is now scheduled to be on display at the Moses Mason House.

It is well for us to remember that Communist China continues to be a very brutal nation where life is extremely cheap. The rulers of Red China make Adolf Hitler look like a second stringer when it comes to arranging for human slaughter. Hitler caused the gassing and cremation of between three and four million Jews. But Mao Tse Tung and his successors have deliberately exterminated more than 15 million of their own people.

When the Marxists came to power in 1949 it became a crime to own private property. Under the euphemism of "land reform" all farms and land holdings were nationalized. Peasant farmers who owned as little as an acre of land were given mock trials, summarily executed and buried in mass graves. Agricultural communes were established with forced labor battalions to do the work. Party bureaucrats with little or no farming experience were placed in charge. Famine followed. But, also there was a deliberate reign of terror in keeping with Lenin's policies. He had said "They will hate us, but who cares?"

The mind set of the regime in Beijing continued to manifest itself six years ago when peaceful student demonstrations in Tianamen Square were crushed under the treads of Army tanks. Between 500 and 1,000 of China's young freedom advocates were slaughtered.

In the face of this and similar brutalities the Clinton Administration now plans to send a delegation to an international "women's rights" conference, and the president's wife may also attend. Would we have sent a delegation to a "women's rights" conference in Adolph Hitler's Germany? I think not.

NEED MORE CHILDCARE

To the Editor:

Now that we have a child in first grade and one going to Headstart, I find it very hard to find a childcare center that opens before 6:30 or 7 a.m. and also one that is open weekends.

We live in a town mostly made up of eateries or tourist traps. Our teachers and we have to work weekends. Some have to work out-of-town because the pay scale is so low and the cost of living is so high.

It would be very helpful if someone would be open weekends and at night so the childcare center could get the kids on the bus for us for a year-round pick-up, so that we could get to work by 7 a.m. There must be others out there with this problem who would take advantage of such a place to make it worth their while.

Bethel Town Office

The Town Office is anxiously awaiting your surveys. It has been brought to the attention of the Comprehensive Planning Committee members that some folks did not receive a survey. The reason for this is that the distribution was developed from Bethel's registered voter and taxpayer lists.

The response to date has been encouraging. A large number of responses are coming from property owners, who pay taxes in Bethel but live in other towns or states. While this is good, we need the majority of responses to come from Bethel residents of all ages to truly reflect your concerns.

If you did not receive a survey in the mail, if you are young or old, a tax-payer, voter, or a long term resident in Bethel, please stop by the Bethel Town Office and request a copy. A reminder that all names are removed by the staff at the Town Office to insure your complete confidentiality. It is time or never to state your opinion which will help shape Bethel's future. Won't you complete your survey today?

The Garbo construction is well under way. Volunteers have been working hard and the progress shows. Swing in and give them a pat on the back. New figures from the Oxford County Regional Solid Waste Corp. shows an increase in collected materials. Total tonnage for July 1995 is up by 88 tons from July 1994. Actual and estimated product sales for January through July 1995 are $110,177.47. If this trend of increased collection continues, sales will be up an estimated $78,816 over 1994. Let's help make this happen, you're participation is needed.

In 1994, the percent of statewide unemployment in Maine was 6.7. In comparison to other New England states, only Rhode Island shared this rate. Connecticut and Massachusetts held the next highest figures at 5.6 and 5.4 percent, respectively. The national average was 5.9 percent.

Adjusting this information to a county level, Oxford ranks at the fourth highest. Of the entire 16, Washington, Aroostook, Somerset showed to be the top three counties with the highest unemployment rates.

More specifically, Bethel falls into the Rumford Labor Market. Out of 36 markets, our 1994 unemployment ranking at 11.5 percent is the ninth highest in the state. The Norway-Paris Labor Market ranks 14 at 9.8 percent.

In comparison of May 1995 and May 1994 figures, there is 1.3 percent drop in the number unemployed. Norway-Paris also shares this favorable shift by 2.4 percent. All information was provided by the Maine Department of Labor.

Trails

trails effort, and he agreed to continue in that role until a replacement could be found.

The group Monday decided to focus its efforts on two "doable," but more limited, local projects: working with the Bethel Station developers to ensure that some form of year-round bike/hike/snowmobile pathway is constructed between Davis Park and the Route 2 bridge, and developing a bike path between the bridge and Sunday River Ski Resort.

The Bethel Station path was mentioned prominently when developers were promoting the project to town voters, but plans for it have since been scaled back, in part because of wetlands considerations along the riverside.

The trails group agreed Monday to try to meet with Bethel Station developer Heine Merrill to review the status of the pathway, and to try to move its development forward.

Merrill said Tuesday that some form of path is still in the works and that he looked forward to working with the group.

with the group.

Funding for the path is expected to be in next year's MDOT budget.

He said: "A paved path has been ruled out,"

Merrill said, because of environmental concerns, but alternative surfaces are being studied, including a "Pre," a mix of gravel and wood chips popular in the Northwest and named for the late Oregon marathoner Steve Prefontaine.)

The second section of a pathway, between the bridge and Sunday River, would seem to be a simple matter.

A well-used snowmobile trail currently runs from the bridge to Sunday River's Summit Motel.

But that trail crosses a swampy area near Twitchell Brook, an area which is all but impassable except during the winter when it is frozen.

Alternative routes around the swampy area apparently exist, and two members of the trails group agreed to map out those possibilities and begin the process of contacting landowners to attempt to obtain permission for usage.

But such permission is by no means a given. "It's much easier to get folks to let you use their land when there's snow on it," noted Bill Wight, trail coordinator for the Maine Snowmobile Association and member of the Windy Valleys' Snowmobile Club and

Any such trail would have to be an informal one, they agreed, to minimize landowner resistance to the idea.

Sunday River engineer Joe Aloisio, one of the two members who agreed to tackle the project, said the skiway supports the trail link as a community-service project but has no interest in adding such a route to its current mountain-bike trail system.

"There are more trails on our own land than we can develop for many years to come," he said, but a connecting trail to the village would be a plus both for local visitors and for Sunday River employees.

"I can think of a lot of people who would love to ride home from work," Aloisio said.

Airport

package, and identify some real plusses."

The proposed BAA, which would manage the airport finances, would consist of five regular members and two associates, all appointed by the selectmen.

The ordinance stipulates that not more than three of those (seven) people can be either licensed pilots, aircraft owners or otherwise associated with the aviation industry.

Tomorrow (Thursday) morning the selectmen are expected to review some final wording changes suggested by the town lawyer, and to decide on a date for the referendum.

BAS hangar proposed

For Bethel Air Service, the timing of the new board has proven to be a problem.

BAS owners Steve Whitney and Dan Bilodeau want to build a new, 60-by-132-foot hangar on leased land at the airport. And they'd like to build it this year.

Last week Whitney reviewed BAS's proposal and financial plan for the selectmen.

The proposed hangar would be heated and would house up to eight small aircraft.

BAS would operate from the building for the first 50 years. After that period the hangar would become town property.

The selectmen expressed interest in the proposal, but Chadbourne said it would be "premature to consider a hangar" before the new authority was established and a long-term financial plan for the airport is in place.

The Computer Fence Whitewash

By MIKE BROWN

The Maine Attorney General's Office conveniently and politically painted around the so-called "Computergate" issue declaring in a chalky-mushy decision last week that its office "decided that the evidence does not warrant prosecution...because this decision is based in part upon certain ambiguities in the statute."

The Computergate web entangles whether or not state workers used state equipment on state time for partisan political purposes. Of course, they did. And it's a violation of law, ambiguities be damned.

The AG decision, after several weeks of secret investigation resulting in no-verdict, really means that the AG decision was a blatant political whitewash, incompetence -- or both.

The evidence in the case is overwhelming that state workers did in fact use state computers to, among other activities, devise political ads, organize political fund-raisers, compile voting lists, log political polling results and mail out self-promotion releases hyping their own jobs to incumbent legislators.

The AG's office responded that, well maybe so, but that would be hard to criminally prove in court because of the statute ambiguities.

What is going on here is raw partisan politics. By far, the majority of the violations were executed by the Secretary of State's office, a state position held by Joy O'Brien, a Democratic activist, for a number of years when the D's were the majority party of the Senate.

The Secretary's office is supposed to be non-partisan representing senators of both political parties in contrast to the two opposing partisan offices of the Senate. Clearly, much of Dennis "Duke" DuTremble's campaign bid for Congress was orchestrated by the Secretary of State's office. DuTremble was Maine Senate President at the time.

Incredibly, the AG's office found no prosecutable violations in this activity. Perhaps that should not be a startling decision when the Attorney General of Maine is essentially appointed by the majority party of the legislature.

The decision on Computergate did not leave the AG's office without review and approval of AG

Andrew Kettler, an appointed Democrat although it was under the signature of Linda Pistner, chief deputy attorney general. Kettler had publicly excused himself, or so he said, from the case because there was slight mention of his GOP opponent Ken Cole on the tapes.

In political scenarios, Kettler has a problem and it's not with the Ken Cole blurb. Very possibly the R's will become the majority party of legislature, both House and Senate, next session. But Kettler needs to patronize a few politicians on both sides to keep his re-appointment possible. In that scenario, the AG's office is not about to prosecute political activists working on state time and equipment.

The AG office refused a Freedom of Access request in February 1995 for the public documents surrounding the case because, it said, they were "investigatory records...and exempt under the law."

Subsequently, Assistant AG Tom Warren told the legislative council that all records would become public after the investigation was complete. It is, and the AG's office has yet to respond to a second FOA request for the documents.

The incompetence and whitewash of the AG decision is illuminated by its silence on "password files," that is, files created by senate staff persons and protected by their individual, private passwords. Reportedly, the AG's office asked the staffers for their passwords and they refused. The AG's office then presumably did not pursue the information contained in these secret files although they were created by state workers on state equipment on state time.

Maine citizens may have to get used to partisan AG's whitewashing the political fence. Many of the AG files are still closed in the former Speaker John Martin "Ballotgate" fiasco. That lingering legislative smell was caused by legislative staffers playing politics on the people's millions.

Maine is the only state in the nation that seats its attorney general singularly by the political spoils system. And it shows.

THIS WEEK AT THE
Moses Mason
House

Richard W. Judd, associate professor of history at the University of Maine, will be the featured speaker at the 30th annual meeting of the Bethel Historical Society to be held on Thursday, Sept. 7, in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House, beginning at 6:30 p.m. with a potluck supper.

Professor Judd's topic will be "Railroads and Maine Tourism." A native of California, Dr. Judd received his Ph.D. from the University of California, Irvine, Calif. He has written and lectured widely. His publications include "Aroostook: A Century of Logging in Northern Maine" and the forthcoming "Common Lands, Common People: Landscape, Social Change, and Conservation in Northern New England, 1830-1930" to be published next year by Harvard University Press.

During the business portion of the meeting, officers and trustees will be elected following the report of the Nominating Committee, composed of Olive Anderson, Arlene Lowell and John Bayerlein. The 1995 Marjorie MacArthur Noll Volunteer Service Award will also be presented to an outstanding volunteer. Highlights of the past year will be reviewed and members who have died since the last annual meeting will be remembered.

Those planning to attend the potluck supper should bring either a salad, dessert or main dish. The meeting is open to anyone interested.

Town manager to be reconsidered

GREENWOOD--Selectmen voted last week to put an article on the March Town Meeting warrant to reconsider the changeover to a town manager form of government. The change had been approved last March, but resident Sam Chittick presented a 77-signature petition to selectmen two weeks ago asking for reconsideration. Meanwhile, chair Marie Bartlett said because the charge of last March's meeting is still in effect, the search for a manager would go on. Selectmen also approved early payment for volunteers who fought a fire at Howe's Crossing in June. Seventeen non-fire-department volunteers helped out. They, as well as department members, will be paid now rather than in December. The total cost to the town for fighting the blaze was $3,527.25.

United Video Cablevision to be sold

WINDHAM--United Video Cablevision will sell its Maine and Ohio divisions to FrontierVision Operating Partners of Denver, Colorado, for $120 million. UVC currently serves customers in towns that include Bethel, Newry, Greenwood, Woodstock, and West Paris. Michael Morton, UVC executive vice president, said the UVC majority partner wants to get out of the business because of increasing regulatory restrictions. UVC general manager Brian Gasser said FrontierVision is considering eventually using fiber optic cables that could create a more efficient system, allowing the addition of more channels at a much lower cost.

Newry mil rate goes up .6

NEWRY--Last year's mil rate of 10.2 will increase to 10.8 this year, according to Sylvia Gray, Newry administrative assistant. The town's total 1995 budget is $1,580,056, with the amount needed from taxation $1,442,210. Newry will pay $1,095,368 to SAD44.

Passers-by put out fire

BETHEL--A small woods fire on Swan Hill Thursday was extinguished by some passers-by. Fire chief Jim Young said they were able to put the fire out using shovels. He said the fire could have been much worse because of a strong wind blowing at the time.

SAD15 turns down state subsidy

GRAY--SAD15 voters effectively turned down the district's state school subsidy and rejected its debt service obligation (for paying off building construction) in a school budget referendum last week. The proposed $11.2 million budget was defeated, with only one of seven warrant articles approved. The article approved granted the district authorization to spend money from grants and other aid received during the school year, if local funds are not required. Supt. Judith Lucarelli said in her experience she had never seen the state subsidy and debt service articles defeated. With a deadline of Aug. 30 to have a completed budget, the fate of the subsidy money earmarked for SAD15 is unknown. Municipal officials are also unable to set the mil rate for sending out tax bills due in October. Last year voters went to the polls five times before finally agreeing on a budget.

Watch out for Nigerian letter scam

BOSTON, Mass.--Businesses are being warned to watch out for a Nigerian letter scam. A letter typically arrives marked "urgent," "confidential," and "Government of Nigeria." It asks for assistance in processing large sums of money that had been "overlooked" in a surplus account. The letter writer, claiming to be a government official, explains that to access the money, it must first be cleared through a foreign account. The writer then asks the business to help process the money through its bank account, promising a large payment in return. The scam has bilked $200 million from businesses throughout the world. Better Business Bureau officials advise people receiving the letter to contact them, their state Attorney General's office, or the U.S. Postal inspector.

Firefighters harder to find

PORLTAND--Maine fire departments are finding it harder to recruit volunteers, who make up 90 percent of the state's firefighters. For the past 20 years, the number of volunteers has stayed at about 11,000, while the population has increased by more than 20 percent. Part of the problem is that volunteers must now have 162 hours of training and wear cumbersome protective gear in order to fight fires. Most are paid for the time they fight fires, but not for the training. "With husbands and wives both working, unscheduled free time is at a premium," said Scarborough chief Robert Carson. "The volume of calls is detrimental, too." Only four of the state's 500 departments are staffed completely by full-time firefighters. The drop in firefighters is a problem across the country, according to John Buckman, an Indiana fire chief. He blames the decline in firefighters in a change in attitude toward volunteering. "It's not that there are fewer volunteers out there, it's that the culture of America has changed to where the American people basically say, 'What's in it for me?'"

Sponges and dishrags carry germs

MIAMI--Sponges and dishrags could be harmful to your health. A study of 100 cleaning cloths and sponges collected from household kitchens across the U.S. found millions of germs. Twenty specimens carried germs that cause salmonella food poisoning, urinary tract infections, skin ailments or other illnesses, said Charles Gerba, an environmental microbiologist at the University of Arizona. A common source of the germs is raw meat that hasn't been thoroughly cleaned after slaughter. People "wipe a spot with a sponge and put it right back in the sink. What they don't realize is they're putting the salmonella right to the sponge, where they could grow to millions overnight," Gerba said. Suggestions for a healthier kitchen: use paper towels instead of sponges or rags (but don't reuse them, either); buy antibacterial sponges; buy kitchen cleaners that say "antibacterial," "kills germs," or "disinfects;" wash hands thoroughly while cooking, cook meat well.

Women worldwide want fewer children

NEW YORK--The size of the family is shrinking all over the world because women in most countries want fewer children, according to a study for a United Nations conference on women. The report examines aspects of family planning, pregnancy and birth shared by women in 42 developed and developing countries, including the United States. A key finding is that the average family size has dropped from six to three children in the last 25 years in many Asian and Latin American countries. But the study also found that one in six women worldwide still lack access to adequate birth control methods, and the levels of men using birth control was low.

More cars failing maintenance checks

Eighty-seven percent of cars checked failed some part of a National Car Care Month inspection, according to results recently tabulated by the Car Care Council. Of vehicles 10 years old or older, 94 percent needed maintenance, the highest percentage in the history of the program. Incorrect pressure or worn tread resulted in 31 percent of the vehicles inspected in the 27 participating states failing the tire inspection. Other problem areas included exhaust emission, windshield wipers, and dirty fluids. "The increase in discrepancies might be attributed to the older average age (8.3 years) of our vehicles," suggests Donna Wagner, National Car Care Month Executive Director. "Whatever the reason, most of the corrective measures cost little and pay big dividends in terms of better performance, safety and improved environment."

MLT to close on land

The Mahoosuc Land Trust plans to close Friday on the 14-acre parcel of land at the intersection of Route 26 and the Intervale Road. The land trust has raised more than $43,000 of the $60,000 for the parcel. Donations, which will be matched by a matching grant from the Betterment Fund, will be accepted through Sept. 29, according to MLT executive director Marcel Polak.

From the Bethel Police log: It wasn't Santa coming down the chimney

On August 26 at 11:23 a.m., an East Bethel resident reported that at his building site on the Intervale Road, an unknown person had entered the locked building by dropping through the unfinished chimney hole into the cellar hole. The intruder had then opened the entry door between the garage and the house, and had taken a one and a half horse-power air compressor, valued at $200. The complainant said there were size 11-and-one-half workboot footprints all around the house.

Wednesday, August 23

At 7:22 p.m., a Broad Street resident reported that sometime during the past two nights an unknown person had entered his barn and taken a black, 26-inch mountain bike. The bike had blue tool and water bottle pouches attached to it.

At 10:08 p.m., a state police detective requested help on a possible OUI stop on Route 2 near Bethel Auto Sales. Police spoke to the man, who was not under the influence but was very fatigued. A small marijuana pipe discovered by the detective's partner was given to the Bethel Police to be destroyed. The man was given a verbal warning for having the paraphernalia.

Thursday, August 24

At midnight the Oxford County Sheriff's Department requested assistance for a trooper in Gilcad with a man with a rifle. Rounds had been fired off. The weapon was taken.

Friday, August 25

At 12:50 a.m., a Church Street resident reported his windshield had been smashed and obscenities written in marker on the car. He said the incident took place at the Backstage Restaurant. There was $700 damage to the car.

At 2 a.m. police responded to an unspecified call on Main Street. A Main Street resident said the windshield of his vehicle had been broken. He said he had had a problem with a man at the Backstage Restaurant. Damage to the vehicle was $600.

Sunday, August 27

At 11:45 a.m. an Intervale resident reported that her husband had picked up their son for visitation, and had apparently taken him to New Hampshire. She said she and her husband were separated, and she had recently returned to Bethel from living in New Hampshire. With no current court paperwork regarding separation, divorce, or custody, police advised the complainant to contact a lawyer to file custody paperwork.

At 7:35 p.m., a Bryant Pond resident reported that three people living in his old farmhouse are continuing to ride their horses across the field he still owns. He said they are causing irreparable damage to the hay crop. He said he had spoken to the subjects on more than one occasion, and had reported that to another officer. The other officer had apparently spoken to the subjects at their residence. Police planned to issue a warning for criminal trespass.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies. An answering machine takes calls when an officer is not in the office.

Tips from the Community Lakes Association

High levels of phosphorous can ruin our lakes. Flowing water carries sediment and phosphorous into the lake. A vegetative buffer zone along the edges of lakes and streams filters the runoff and helps to maintain water quality. Azalea's, blueberries and native plants and trees are good to plant in your buffer zone.

During and immediately after a hard rainstorm is a good time to study how the water flows over your property. You should look for ways to divert any water flowing directly into lakes, streams or ditches, through a filter of vegetation. If you can't divert the flow, hay bales and large rocks will help slow the flow.

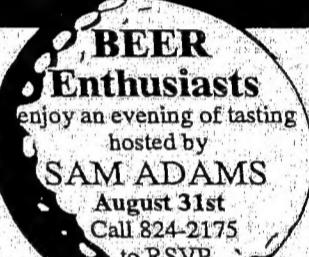

Fall is a good time to start planning how you can help keep your water quality good. For more information, contact the Community Lakes Association, 162 North Main St., Bryant Pond, ME 04219

Several directors objected to the question being decided without input from CPS principal David Murphy, who was not at the meeting. But a motion to table the question until the next meeting was defeated. Newry director Debbie Gilbert finally asked for a roll call vote -- a move usually reserved for issues involving substantial amounts of money.

The board then voted 456 to 214 to move the petition to CPS, although not necessarily to the primary wing. Board members and former Bisbee students Merton Brown, John Brown, and Harrington, together with Murphy, were designated to find a suitable location for the portrait.

Budget referendum petition presented to board

By ALISON ALUISSIO

The SAD44 School Board was presented with a petition Monday requesting a district vote on whether future school budgets should be decided by referendum. The issue will come up for a vote in the general election in November.

In many districts, including SAD44, school budgets are now decided by a town-meeting-style district meeting.

There was little discussion at Monday's meeting, as the issue was not on the agenda. It will appear as an agenda item for the September 11 board meeting. Superintendent Ron Jenkins said a vote then to have it put on the November ballot would simply be a waste of time, as the board is required to abide by the results of the petition.

Greenwood selectwoman Marie Bartlett and Bethel resident Pat Dooen presented 540 signatures to the board, with all five district towns represented.

State law requires the signatures of at least 10 percent of voters voting in the last gubernatorial election. The number of signatures gathered was well above that requirement.

Bartlett, Dooen, and Andover selectman Joe Madigan have been promoting the petition for several months.

Madigan said Andover residents are reluctant to make the trip to Telstar to vote. Bartlett said many voters feel intimidated by the presence of school staff members at district meetings, and there would be more participation in the voting if it were done by referendum.

VOLUNTEERS SOUGHT FOR SEXUAL ASSAULT HOTLINE

-- Are you a good listener?

-- Would you like to make a real difference in the lives of other community members?

If you can give some time each month to helping victims and survivors of sexual assault, R.E.A.C.H. (the Rape Education and Crisis Hotline serving Oxford County) will train you to be a hotline volunteer.

Beginning Monday, Sept. 25, R.E.A.C.H. will sponsor a training for Sexual Assault Hotline Advocates. The hotline provides round-the-clock assistance for victims of sexual assault and their loved ones. Advocates answer questions, give information, and support callers in their healing.

Classes are held once a week, for approximately 10 weeks, and include such topics as: myths surrounding sexual assault, rape trauma syndrome, incest, crisis intervention, listening and communication skills, domestic violence, the criminal justice system, social attitudes, community resources, and much more.

Upon completion of the program advocates are asked to give five 12-hour shifts of on-call time per month. A pager system is used, allowing advocates full freedom to have active, constructive days while on call. R.E.A.C.H. relies on its volunteer advocates to allow it to offer the 24-hour coverage on its hotline.

Classes will be held at Oxford Hills High School, on Monday evenings from 6 to 9 p.m. For more information call the R.E.A.C.H. office at 743-9777. If there is no one to take your call, please leave a message and someone will return your call as soon as possible.

SMITH REUNION

The descendants of the late Simon and Mary Ann McKeon Smith held their annual reunion at the Craft Center (previously known as the Family Craft Workshop) in Freeport on Aug. 18. One hundred fifty people gathered for the reunion from different states, Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Vermont, Canada, and South Carolina.

plete stop, as the road angles back from that direction. She's worried that cars coming up rapidly from behind will pose a danger.

Littlefield did see a plus to the wider road -- less ice accumulation in the winter.

"The sun should get to the road better," she said.

Bertha Stevens, a 50-year resident of the area, lost six large pine trees at her house to the construction. "I hated to see them go, but it does look nice now," she said.

Stevens said she has given up backing out of her driveway onto Route 26.

"They lowered the road, and now it's downhill from the driveway. So I turn around in the yard," she said.

Walking easier

Duane Winslow has lived near the Locke Mills Market since 1960, and is a familiar sight to motorists as he walks that end of the stretch of road.

"It's a lot easier to walk, now that it's all paved," he said.

Winslow said although the cutting of the old trees brought a good view of the mountains, he'd rather have the trees back.

"But that's progress. I guess," he said.

New wall design used

The state had a chance to try out a new retaining wall design during the project. Precast concrete block walls were built along the east side of the road.

Gallant said the material had only been used once (and on a very small scale) prior to this project. He said rock basket (Gabion) walls had been used previously.

"The precast is a step up in appearance and ease of construction," he said.

Locke Mills project still on hold

A plan to widen Route 26 through Locke Mills toward Woodstock is still on hold due to lack of funding, according to MDOT engineer Brad Foley. That project would likely require the demolition of a house across from Howe Hill Road.

"A turning lane to the ski area (Mt. Abram) would have to be built," Foley said.

Foley also said there are no plans that he is aware of for improvements to Route 26 between Chadron's and Bethel village.

Gallant had said the area near the end of the Intervale Road could use a new layer of pavement.

Gray leads highly-ranked Gould skiers

Its final round of rankings for the 1994-95 ski season in the United States Ski Association ranked Parker Gray in the top 50 in all four alpine events among several thousand 15-year-old boys nationwide. Gray achieved his best ranking in giant slalom, fifth place. He ranks 25th in super-G, 34th in slalom and 38th in downhill. When ranked against 15-year-olds exclusively from the East, Gray jumps to second place position in giant slalom. He's also number one 15-year-old giant slalom racer in New England.

Gray attends Gould Academy and competes for the Eastern "A" Team. He recently returned from the annual alpine training camp in the French Alps where he earned the Sportsmanship and Tim Illice Awards for his positive attitude, leadership, dedication to training. The 26-day camp focused mainly on developing strong technical skills in giant and giant slalom.

Gray also attended last year's camp and attributes his recent success to the glacier training never been that good in slalom, but it's come a long way since France," he said. After being on snow for a month in the summer, most people would forget the recent warm weather and forget about skiing while Gray, however, can't seem to get it out of his head. "I have a World Cup videotape that I watch every day," he said. "I wish that I was on snow."

JOB TRAINING FOR WOMEN

Women Unlimited, based in Augusta, is offering a 14-week program that will teach women hands-on skills in residential carpentry and Class B truck driving. The program also will include technical math and reading, physical conditioning, and personal and career development. The program is sponsored by the Workforce Development Center and the Maine Departments of Transportation and Education. Classes will be held in Norway and Bethel.

Women Unlimited trains women in these and other trades because wages tend to be higher than in more typical female jobs. For example, a recent study of 266 Maine occupations found that, on average, male-dominated jobs pay twice as much as female-dominated jobs. At the same time, the number of families with children headed by women is increasing in Maine. These women need higher-paying jobs to support their families.

Sexual harassment, lack of female role models and limited experience with tools and machines are some of the reasons more women do not enter male-dominated occupations. Women Unlimited training is designed to help women overcome these obstacles.

For more information about the program, call Women Unlimited at 1-800-281-5259.

FERGUSON APPOINTED TO TAX-EXEMPTION GROUP

Sen. Norman K. Ferguson, Jr. (R., Hanover) has been appointed by the president of the Maine Senate to serve on a commission to review and revise laws concerning tax-exempt properties in Maine.

"This is a huge but necessary task," Ferguson said. "There is concern that local budgets are being hurt by growth in tax-exempt property, when municipalities have no way to make up for the revenue loss."

The Historical Society is an important influence in the community. History has an impact on all our lives. Thanks to Earle and Louise Noyes for watching the museum recently. Mary Billings is fundraising for the society.

The Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizens will meet at the Masonic Hall at Bryant Pond on Sept. 7 for a regular meeting. Dinner will be served by the Star Birthday Club. Charlotte Cole will have the program.

Curator Larry Billings has done some work on the Reserve Books in the museum. There is a file with cards for them all, and the books have been arranged alphabetically by author. Numbers have been put in the books so they can be arranged by the Dewey Decimal System if the society ever decides to do that. The Historical Society studies the people, places, and events of our history. It tries to make the past real to us. The museum has a great variety of exhibits. They give a good general sense of all aspects of our heritage.

Greenwood Cityby Colista Morgan

I still remember my day at the sea even though a couple of weeks have passed. When there, I lived under the spell of the water and gulls.

On the morning that we went there was a lovely sunrise, clouds edged in crimson, then the sun peeping between two banks of soft gray. It grew into a hot day, when we reached the satin blue edge of the water. It was a good day for sailing.

We watched some boats in the brilliance and was fascinated by it all. The "King Gull" took his usual place at the top of the highest building and a little later played his part taking a bag of potato chips from a table and flying off with the bag held in his beak. The owner had left the table for a short time.

The section of the park at Two Lights was an exposed and rugged headland. The rocky point was split and seamed by the many years of breaking waves. These rocks always fascinate me, when I go there and climb over them. Mary enjoyed them on this trip.

The stones worn by the swirling waters were very strange. By just looking one would be convinced that they were wood. On my first visit there I was so deceived that I expected the weathered fraying could be torn off. Only by touching them do you feel.

We stood or sat and watched the weary swells cave in. There came the gurgle of the breaker then the sound of indrawn breath of receding wash. Many birds swam offshore.

This was a good day to remember: high cliffs, white gulls trooping and flying (and especially the one flying with the bag of chips), flowers, rosehips—in short the grand beauty of a few hours at the sea.

Visiting Portland Headlight before leaving was a special thrill to me.

I had a mystery last Thursday morning. I kept hearing little thumps and the rattling of paper. It came, rested then came again off and on. I could not tell just where it was. Late forenoon the noise was more frequent, so I was determined to find the cause. I did. Near the stove, I heard it again, so I got my flashlight and lifted the cover of the stove, just a little. There looking up at me were the saddest little brown eyes. A chipmunk had somehow come down the chimney and the funnel and could not get out. I had no leather gloves and I didn't want to be bitten but he needed out. So I called Leonas, my brother-in-law, for help. Meanwhile, there was no more sound. After awhile, Leonas came

He turned on the flashlight and carefully opened the stove cover. No chipmunk anywhere. So he returned home. After I had lunch I heard him again, so I gently looked in. He was so weak and looked so pitiful that I decided I'd rescue him. I put on heavy garden gloves, took a box to put over him and a paper plate to cover the box and rescued him. I took him to the cool grass and let him go. I know he said "Thank You" as he jumped just once then, ran away. He was still alive and I hope he is well.

Two former pupils came to see me last Wednesday, Florence Loughnan and Bertha Cole. It was nice to see them again.

Last Tuesday, the Tired Teacher Group, seven of us, went to see Doris Hayes in North Windham. We had a nice time.

Early Sunday morning, Bradley took his boat to Norway Lake and gave Leonas and Fay, Ann and me a ride all around the lake. The morning was clear and fresh, the ride was perfect and we enjoyed it very much, thanks, Bradley.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Schafer have come from Massachusetts to enjoy two weeks at a camp on the Greenwood Road. They called to see me and to say "Hello." I always look forward to their visit.

Zilpha DiArenzo's daughter, Jane, her husband and children are visiting her here.

North Newry

by Gil Seeley

Sylvia Wight and yours truly took to the road Saturday, Aug. 19, and "did" the lawn sales and went to the annual quilt show at Middle Intervale Meeting House, Bethel, then had lunch along the way.

Services were held at the Newry Community Church on Sunday, Aug. 20, at 9 a.m., with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The Message of the Day was: "The Why" from Scriptures Psalms 113, "Praise ye the Lord, Praise, O Ye servants of the Lord, Praise the Name of the Lord."

Later on during the day, at around 3 p.m., there was a hymn sing with guests from surrounding churches, including the Rev. John Grant and his wife of the Church of the Nazarene, Bethel. Five or six ladies sang a special, as did Mr. and Mrs. Grant, with accompaniment by Nancy Anderson on the piano. Sylvia Wight read the history of the little church. There must have been about 30 people there. At around 5 p.m., we gathered for a picnic, coffee, lemonade and goodies and a lot of good fellowship. It was a great day to remember. P.S. There will be no services on Sunday, the 27th.

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Doris Parent, Louise Tetley, and Olive Anderson, members of the "Newry Bowling Gang," were at the Oxford Lanes, Rumford, one day last week. On the overall scores, Betsy was high on the triples beating Gil by three pins, but Gil was high on the singles beating Betsy by one pin! Of the "Eighties," Doris was high on the singles and triples. Betsy had one spare and one strike. Karlene had one spare; Gil and Olive each had two spares.

The Newry Community Church Ladies Circle will meet at Louise Tetley's residence on Tuesday, Sept. 1 at 12:30 p.m.

The Windy Valleys Sno-Mobile Club will meet Sept. 5, 7 p.m., at the Town Building. Election of officers will be held at that time.

Happy Birthday to Sue Cross on the 2nd. "With every rising of the sun, think of your life as just began."

Also, Happy Birthday to Carl the third for his 32nd on Aug. 30. "Keep on going and chances are you will stumble on something, perhaps when you least expect it."

The McAlister/McAlistair Family Club was represented at the Scottish Games at Thomas Point Beach, Brunswick, on Saturday, Aug. 19. There were 59 clans represented. The club will hold its next reunion on Aug. 10, 1996, at the Guy E. Rowe School, Norway. Those from the club from the area who attended the games were: Neil and Estelle Heath, Guy McAlister Jr., Rodney McAllister, Lois and Eddie Niemi and Marilyn and Dick Jones.

Jim Favor and friend from Connecticut, who have been staying at Papoose Pond Camps, called on Albert and Eleanor Nelson on Sunday.

Cheryl Barnard, Jenna and Lindsey from Seaford, Va., spent a few days with her parents the past weekend. While here, Cheryl attended her 25th class reunion at Fryeburg Academy. Others from the area attending were Kathy Adams, Cheryl Millett and Vickie and Steve Pike, Bill and Laurie Severance. Dale Nelson attended his 20th high school reunion and Peter and Cindy Fox their 30th reunion. These reunions are fun to attend and meet with old classmates and reminisce, and I heard the food at the banquet was super good.

We got a phone call from daughter Sharon, who is home now in Belmont, Mass. She and her family have been in Tunisia for about a month visiting relatives. She tells us the country is very different from here, with all the houses made from concrete and no wood. The people didn't know what ice water was, as they have no ice, and no sliced breads, which is 15 cents a loaf there. She says the people are real smoke coming down from Canada and the fire danger is almost as high as it can go. Do you sometimes get the idea that nothing is ever as good as it seems, that there always is something to spoil the ointment?

Ann Fitzmorris and I were in Norway last Wednesday doing a little shopping. It was a nice day for a drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Dunham, Vera Cross, Helen Chase, and Charlotte Cole attended the 40th anniversary for Mr. and Mrs. Roland Dunham on Saturday evening, August 19 in South Paris.

The Planning Board met on Wednesday night to check on several applications for permit.

Tuesday evening, the Oxford County Republicans met for their monthly supper and meeting at the Fryeburg Fairgrounds, at one of the exhibition halls. This is always a good supper and meeting, and we meet so many nice people. The Stoneham committee had a hand-carved, polished elephant and baby elephant, which came from Africa, that was raffled off. The winner was our neighbor and friend, John Fox. The proceeds will help us to meet the town quota, which is sent yearly to the Oxford County Republicans and to the Maine Department. There were about 70 people present.

Shirley Grant from Mechanic Falls visited Frances Grant this past weekend.

It's good to see Gladys Kilgore back home after being in the hospital and nursing home. Welcome home, Gladys.

Jim Morrison is still in the Conway Hospital for treatment for his toe and foot. We hope you will be home soon, Jim.

It is a gorgeous Maine day, the sun shines brightly and the wind is blowing; there is no smoke coming down from Canada and the fire danger is almost as high as it can go. Do you sometimes get the idea that nothing is ever as good as it seems, that there always is something to spoil the ointment?

Ann Fitzmorris and I were in Norway last Wednesday doing a little shopping. It was a nice day for a drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Dunham, Vera

Cross, Helen Chase, and Charlotte Cole attended the 40th anniversary for Mr. and Mrs. Roland Dunham on Saturday evening, August 19 in South Paris.

Mrs. Hope Caskey of N.Y. is visiting her sister, Norma Knight. On Thursday afternoon they hosted a sing-a-long (hootenanny). Those attending were Ethel Martin, Sylvia Clark, Helen Chase, Vera Cross, and Charlotte Cole with the guitar and harmonica.

Jim and Linda Ryan are at the Greene's house. They came last Thursday night and rather confused my dogs who figure no one is supposed to be at that house except on weekends. They also have Simone, their dog, with them as well as their children, Ben and Nick.

Mrs. Mac Fairbanks, who lives near Farmington, has been visiting her sisters and husbands, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Cole and Mr. and Mrs. William Roberts.

Praise Assembly of God, Rumford Center, liked the picnic they had with Debbie and Owen Brown. They had another one last Sunday.

Among those present were Rev. and Mrs. Rob Rainville, Amanda, Emily, Andrea and Ryan, Tina Philbrick, Wanda Hutchinson, Donald, Ray and Beth, Rick and Kim Gruell and Ricky IV, Lorraine Mills, Mickey Huston, Linda Ruffin, James and Rusty and friend, Robert Sheldon, Betsy Bell, John and Izzy, Crystal and Al Lake and Brent, Dotie Brown, Kim and Alan Brown, Elaine Roy and Debbie and Owen.

Swimming and boat rides and water-skiing were offered to the more adventurous. The rest of us just gathered inside the camp (their word, not mine, it looks like a house to me) talked, swapped recipes, discussed the latest reading material, all those things ladies talk about, while Debbie tried out the latest haircuts on a few people. She is getting very good at it. I'm sure she can't wait until her schooling is over and she can set up her own shop.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Dunham,

Vera Cross, Helen Chase, and Charlotte Cole attended the 40th anniversary for Mr. and Mrs. Roland Dunham on Saturday evening, August 19 in South Paris.

Another death is Allison Benson, who died suddenly this week. Allison is my first cousin and I always liked visiting with him and his wife, Janet. I attended his visiting hours. Sympathy goes out to his wife and children, Pam and Paul and grandchild, and his many friends, he will be missed.

I received calls from my sisters, Evelyn Dunn, Campion, N.H., and Dotte Critser, Tempe, Arizona concerning Alison's death.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society reports that he has given a book of poetry to the society. Alice and Ken Hoyt watched the museum recently. Mary and Larry Billings have supplied fresh flowers for the museum several times this summer. The society members research many different aspects of the past.

Sarah Hart had four wisdom teeth pulled this past Friday, and will be out of work for a few days.

It seems everywhere you go they are working on the roads this summer. It will be good to have them in good condition again.

I took my car to have some work done on it this week. I had to drive a strange car while it was being fixed. I'm not used to change.

Buster Poland and Rosalie Poland are having sales at the Union Church off and on this summer and fall.

Congratulations to Donald and Stephanie Jackson on the birth of a son, Travis. Travis joins a sister, Katrina, four years old.

Wesley Cox, Jr. took his son, Desmond to a Seadogs' baseball game last Thursday.

A pall of acrid smoke hung over this area of Western Maine last Monday night and Tuesday day blown in by strong northwesterly winds from the Quebec forest fires.

David and Norma Salway spent a weekend recently in Laconia, N.H., with his brother, Barry Salway and family and attended the wedding of Barry's only son, Scott Salway. Barry and "Fif" Bean Salway were formerly of Bethel. Her mother, Mrs. Margaret Bean, also attended the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gardner of Waterford and Mrs. Grace Morrill of Bethel were supper guests last Sunday of the Bill Bancroft family.

Mrs. Kate Gordon with Mrs. Paula Cordwell rode up to Hunt's Corner last Sunday to see the new home being built for the Erland Waterhouse family.

Leland Kimball and Anne Lyons were recent visitors of Mrs. Gordon. I spent last Tuesday night and Wednesday night with Dottie and Herbie Adams at their cottage. Herbie underwent angioplasty surgery at Maine Medical Center last Thursday.

Howdy, folks.

What a sunny

but hot week we have just had.

I've kept out of the sun as I was afraid of becoming a mere grease spot, how about you?

Last Monday, we canned 16 pints of string beans. After dinner,

Peggy's daughter and son-in-law, Kaye and Otto Blossey, came down and mowed the lawns for us. They are from Tustis, Fla., but are spending several weeks in Maine and have their motor home located at our brother Bryce's place in Newry.

Peggy and I were in Auburn Tuesday and Wednesday looking at used vehicles for Peggy. She brought one home to try and had her son-in-law, Otto Blossey, check it over, and we decided that we'd return it as there were problems with it.

High Street

They have finished resurfacing High Street, and we now have a superior highway all of the way.

Sister Laura came down from East Andover Wednesday afternoon and Peggy gave her a home permanent.

Thursday evening, we attended Musical Night and Open House at West Paris Grange. I served as chaplain for the evening, as the regular chaplain didn't feel like coming to Grange. Peggy and I helped out with the program, as we did one of our skits. It was a nice meeting and quite well attended.

Peggy invited Bertha Benoit to come for supper and birthday cake in honor of her approaching birthday. Sister Laura was also invited, as she was coming down anyway. We had a sing-a-long after supper. Our voices leave something to be desired but we had a good time anyway.

We worked around home all day Saturday, but when evening came Peggy was ready to attend the dance at West Paris Grange.

Sunday was the day that Mandy Cobb, granddaughter of our sister Laura, was to fly to Germany to spend some time with the James Cobb family. We hope she had a good flight and arrived at her destination okay.

Sunday evening, Peggy and I, also Bertha Benoit and Lettie Brooks, went to the Locke Mills Legion Hall to help get the place ready for serving the Musical Supper on Tuesday evening. Lots of help came so we were home earlier than expected.

Sunday School will resume at The Mission Congregational Church on Sept. 10.

The West Paris School will again be collecting Campbell Soup labels. They may be left at the school or with Mary Lovejoy. They are really appreciated.

Sharmaine Penley of West Paris visited Mary Lovejoy one day last week.

Mary Lovejoy called on Beverly Stevens, West Paris, on Friday afternoon.

Hope Lovejoy has finished her work selling blueberries at the Haverinen Farm on King Hill. The hot, dry summer made for a short berry season.

Mark Dunn came to the Lovejoy home on Sunday and will visit until Wednesday.

There will be a dance at West Paris Grange Hall on Sept. 2, with good music by the Richard Felt Orchestra. This type of music is hard to find.

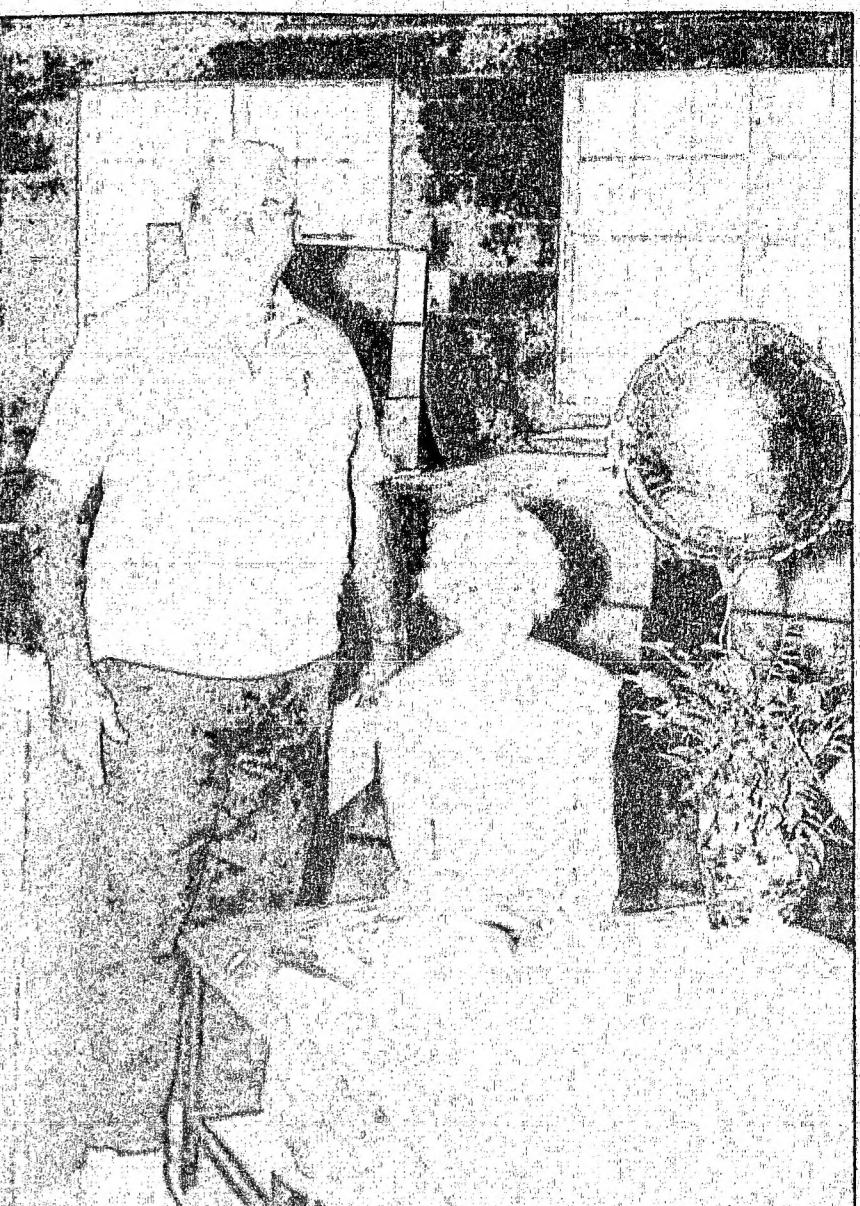

Oxford Pomona Grange 2 will meet on Sept. 5 at Frederick Robbie Grange in Ossfield. There will be a 6:30 supper and installation of officers. It is hoped that all of the newly elected officers will be present to be installed into office.

JUDKINS REUNION

The 10th anniversary of the founding of the Judkins Family Association will take place Sept. 16 at the Peru American Legion Hall.

An old-fashioned New England boiled dinner will be served at noon to the first 100 persons to send in their reservations. The cost of the meal will be $6 for adults and $3 for children.

Reservations must be in by Sept. 1. Checks should be made out to Albert Judkins and mailed to P.O. Box 199, Peru, ME 04289.

FINN FUN WEEKEND

Finnish relatives of Finns and people interested in Finland will be gathering on Oct. 20 for a weekend of sharing ideas about Finnish Clubs, dancing, good food including homemade palla at coffee breaks, more dancing, Finnish music, and times to buy Finnish goods at the TORI, singing, games, and more dancing.

Registration blanks may be obtained through Barbara Payne, P.O. Box 294, West Paris, ME 04289 (207) 743-5677.

The Inevitable Chickenpox: Its Symptoms Can Be Treated

News USA

(NU) Chickenpox is a common childhood illness. By the age of 10, almost all Americans get exposed to the virus that causes chickenpox.

There are a number of steps, however, that you can take to treat the symptoms of the virus, says NARD, the national association representing independent retail pharmacy.

* First, know the symptoms. Although chickenpox occurs year-round, most cases appear in the late winter and throughout the spring. You can catch the virus if you're near an infected person who sneezes or coughs.

The symptoms, which last between three and 10 days, appear about two weeks following exposure. Your child may develop a mild fever and flu-like symptoms that include loss of appetite, tiredness, sore throat and aching muscles. A day or two later the telltale rash will appear. Generally, the rash spreads from the face to the body, then to the arms and legs. Within a few hours, the itchy, red spots become blisters that eventually crust over.

* Second, as soon as symptoms appear, visit your family physician and pharmacist. If left untreated, chickenpox can become serious, causing pneumonia and other complications. Also, if you are pregnant, elderly or have a weakened immune system because of other health problems, you will need to take extra precautions.

If you or your child are otherwise healthy, your physician will probably give you a prescription to reduce the itching and promote healing. Your pharmacist may suggest that you also use an over-the-counter product such as an oral antihistamine or calamine lotion.

* Never use an antihistamine preparation directly on the lesions, unless you are told to by your physician. Although aspirin should never be given to anyone who has chickenpox, acetaminophen and ibuprofen can be used to control the accompanying fever. Some patients experience temporary relief from the itching when bathed in special oatmeal baths.

* To prevent children from scratching the blisters and causing permanent scars, have them wear cotton gloves or socks on their hands. Fingernails also should be trimmed so that scratched blisters are less likely to burst and become infected.

* Finally, since chickenpox causes fewer complications to younger, healthy patients, you may want to ask your physician about purposely exposing your children to the virus. (Someone who has been exposed to the virus has an 80 to 90 percent chance of getting it.) Until a vaccine is developed to prevent the transmission of the virus, exposure during childhood is safest and usually inevitable.

Was It Something You Ate?

From: The Bethel Area Health Center

How often have you felt sick and decided it just must have been something you ate?

Maybe it was. At the right temperature, bacteria you can't see, smell or taste can multiply to millions in a few short hours. In large numbers, they cause food-borne illnesses in about seven million Americans each year.

However, some 85 percent of cases can be avoided with proper food handling. To protect yourself and your family from food-borne illnesses, try these tips:

- Make sure refrigerated food is cold to the touch and frozen foods are rock-solid. Canned goods should be free of dents, cracks or bulging lids that could indicate a serious food poisoning threat.

- Keep your refrigerator as cold as possible without freezing your milk or lettuce.

- Put packages of raw meat, poultry or fish on a plate before refrigerating so they won't drip on other food. Thaw food in the microwave or refrigerator, not on the kitchen counter.

- Marinate in the refrigerator too.

- Never leave perishable food out of the refrigerator for more than two hours.

- Divide large amounts of leftovers into small, shallow containers for quick cooling in the refrigerator. Don't pack the refrigerator too full — cool air must circulate to keep food safe.

- Thoroughly cook all meat and poultry. Red meats should be heated to 160° F and poultry to 180° F. Other signs that food is "done": red meat is brown or grey inside, poultry juices are clear, fish flakes with a fork.

How do you know if you have food poisoning? Some signs include nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, fever and cramps. Unfortunately, it's not always easy to tell; symptoms can appear anywhere from thirty minutes to two weeks after eating bad food. Most often, though, people get sick within four to forty-eight hours.

In more serious cases, food poisoning may cause paralysis, double vision, or trouble swallowing or breathing. If you think you or someone you know has food poisoning, and the symptoms are severe, call a doctor right away. Those who are very young, very old, pregnant, or already ill should also seek medical attention immediately.

Your Child's First Visit to the Dental Office

Donna M. Fyrberg, R.D.H.

It is important to take your child to the dental office at an early age. Good preventive care will help maintain the primary teeth. Children need strong, healthy teeth to chew their food, speak correctly and to have a pleasant smile. The primary teeth if lost too soon may allow the remaining teeth to shift and space may not be available for the permanent teeth to erupt properly. This may require lengthy and more expensive corrective treatment later.

The earlier you begin the visits to the dental office the better chance there is to prevent problems. For the patient under the age of three the first visit may be just an introduction consisting of a ride in the chair, and becoming familiar with some of the instruments. This first visit is important to help the child become familiar with the office without feeling too much anxiety. Quite often a child, who has had a chance to observe an older sibling, or has visited with a parent during a short simple procedure, is much less apprehensive when it is their turn to sit in the chair. When a child is three they are usually ready for an exam and cleaning. Usually it is a more successful visit with young children in the morning, when they are rested and more cooperative. Allowing your child to go into the room on his or her own will usually work out much better as this will allow a "one on one" conversation which helps to build good rapport. The child in addition to having teeth checked and cleaned may be taught how to properly clean the teeth, will be evaluated for any adverse habits such as thumbsucking, and needs for fluoride will be identified. It may also be recommended that X-rays be taken of your child's teeth to see whether the facial bones and teeth are developing properly and to find hidden decay.

When preparing your child for the first visit it sometimes is best not to talk about the visit too much in advance, because the apprehensive child may then be allowed to have more time to become more anxious. In preparing your child for the first visit it is important that they not be aware of any anxieties that you may have. Even though you may not intentionally let the child know you are nervous or anxious about the appointment, they may sense this. One very common mistake made by parents is to tell the child that "It's not going to hurt". Of course the child is immediately going to get suspicious, a child's thought

"What other reason could there be for saying this unless there is a possibility of discomfort?" Instead talk about the visit in a positive matter-of-fact way, as you would any important new experience.

It is generally recommended that children visit the dentist every six months. Taking your child to the dentist's office regularly can prevent serious disease. Preventive services such as sealants and fluoride treatments are less costly than the fillings, crowns and other treatments that your child may need if the teeth are neglected.

By starting dental visits at an early age and making them regular, you can help your child have strong, healthy teeth throughout life.

FOOT NOTES

Active Lifestyles And Foot Pain Are on the Rise

(NU) Whether it's on the job or in the gym, Americans are more active today than they were in 1992 and, consequently, are spending more time on their feet.

According to a recent survey for the American Podiatric Medical Association titled "Attitudes Toward Foot Care," there was a significant increase in the number of people experiencing sore feet in 1994.

Seventy-six percent of the survey respondents said they spend more than four hours each day on their feet. The same percentage said they had foot problems in the last 12 months. In 1992, only 71 percent spent that much time on their feet.

The survey also showed that more women complain that their feet hurt all the time. Men are experiencing an increase in foot pain, too: In 1992, only 30 percent reported that their feet hurt occasionally. In 1994, 36 percent experienced sore feet from time to time.

The APMA recommends Americans pay attention to what their feet are telling them: Feet become sore and foot problems develop for a variety of reasons, and one of the most common is increased activity without proper footwear or foot care.

"Attitudes Toward Foot Care" probed Americans' habits affecting their feet, their knowledge about podiatric physicians and the medical treatments available. Respondents were divided by age, income, gender, ethnicity and geographic location. Fifty-three percent of the 1,000 respondents were male and 47 percent were female.

For more information on foot care or podiatric medicine in general, call the APMA at 1-800-FOOTCARE.

Michael Harrington, a descendant of one of the original settlers, is a descendant of the storm set in when they looked across the White Mtn. range and told their father, "We are to be buried here." The son of one of those who fled, Michael Harrington, now 70 years old, is the man in which he has served for many years as a member of the town council, and a member of the board of education.

ANDOVER SCHOLARSHIPS

The Board of Directors of the Andover Educational Fund have announced the awarding of $11,035 in scholarships for 1995.

The educational fund awards scholarships in two categories; to high school seniors graduating in the current year who have participated in the fund during their high school career, and through the Charles A. Cutting Endowment Fund. The Cutting Endowment Fund aids students after their first year of post secondary education.

The 1995 graduates receiving scholarships are: Ben Bartlett, who will be attending CMTC and studying Machine Tool Technology; Peter Misroochi, an English major at UMF; Joel Peaslee, participant in the Joint Apprenticeship Program-International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; Angela Szent, enrolled at St. Joseph's College in Windham. Two students have not yet enrolled in a post-secondary program and have asked that their funds be held which is an option allowed by the by-laws of the educational fund. They are Brian Spaulding and Robert Cuff. These monies were accumulated by the students participation in fund activities and by a generous benefactor who awarded each Andover graduate $400.

In the early days these men made a specialty of potato raising, the intensives by putting a wooden frame over a rotten twig and earth hill for fertilizer, in Irish fashion. Before the automobile motor cars lowered the value of the crop, most transportation being done by horse and wagon, setting up a strong market demand for produce, of late years oats and grain have paid better prices. The first profitable business was farm labor on a large scale, with great demand for horses, mules, and oxen. Two generations ago, the people were self-sufficient, but now the new demand has been created by the world's demand for food. These have been starting to grow, and the village is beginning to develop.

Those receiving monies from the Charles A. Cutting Endowment Fund are: Kristin Delano, attending the University of New England and majoring in Marine Biology; Kelly Cronin, enrolled in the Administrative Assistant program at Mid State College; Jennifer Percival, a student in nutrition at UMF; Suzanne Richardson, attending the University of Maine at Orono and enrolled in the Dietitian Program. Also receiving monies from the Cutting Endowment Fund is Robin MacLean, attending the University of Southern Maine at Gorham.

NOTES FROM

Adult Education

The Fall Course flyer for Adult Education in the Telstar Region was mailed to all postal patrons in SAD44 and neighboring towns on Friday, Aug. 25.

The brochure features a new cover design by local artist Jewel Clark. Registrations are currently being accepted at the Adult Education office at Telstar High School or by calling 824-2780.

Registrants will be asked to provide some additional information as part of a Maine Data Collection pilot project, according to Adult Education Director Cathy Newell. The SAD44 Adult Education program is one of ten programs in Maine participating in the pilot project which is primarily devoted to the literacy, academic and vocational courses offered through adult education. Individual programs are encouraged to expand the system to include all adult education courses and programs.

This will necessitate asking all registrants for social security numbers and birth dates as well as the usual name, address and phone number. The staff at the Adult Education office would like to remind the public that this information will be treated as confidential and that anyone who would prefer not to give social security number and/or birth date is free to do so.

Most of the Fall Term classes will begin during the week of Sept. 18.

New this fall are a series of professional course offerings offered on ITV, sponsored by CMTC and USM, including Supervisory Management, Managing Workers' Compensation Programs, Quality and Customer Service, and Finance and Accounting for the Non-Financial.

Manager. The course guide also includes the fall selection of the University of Maine's Educational Network courses. All available courses will be offered at the Telstar site from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m.

The Adult Learning Center opens for the fall on Tuesday, Aug. 29. Instructors Lee Dolleman and Jeanette Baldridge will be at the Center on Monday through Thursday mornings from 9 to noon and Tuesday and Wednesday evenings from 5:30-8:30. Intake interviews for new students will be conducted weekly on Tuesdays from 4:30-5:30 and on Thursdays from 12:30-1 p.m.

To schedule an appointment call the Adult Education office, 824-2780. The Learning Center provides individual programs of high school completion, GED preparation, brush-up for college, and support for those in college programs.

JOB OPPORTUNITY DAY

A free opportunity for those seeking employment in the Western Maine region to meet with employers in the SAD44 area will be provided at the Job Opportunity Day scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 30, from 9:30 to noon, at Telstar Regional High School.

The Job Opportunity Day is being sponsored by SAD44 Adult Education, the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce and the Regional Partnership in cooperation with the Maine Job Service, NOVA and the Workforce Development Center. Cathy Newell of SAD44 and Brian Stowell of the Regional Partnership are serving as co-chairs.

The Job Opportunity Day will feature displays and representatives from area businesses, education and training agencies, mini-workshops on job-seeking skills, and the opportunity for those attending to register with the Maine Job Service as part of the applicant pool available to employers.

The Job Service will have their latest tool, a touch-screen computer kiosk, listing employment opportunities throughout the state. Although no direct hiring will be done at the event, those attending will have the opportunity to learn about employment in this area and to speak with representatives of businesses. The committee is planning for an activity for children so that parents may fully concentrate on the Job Opportunity Day events.

The planning committee members are Cathy Newell of SAD44, Robin Zinchuk of the Chamber of Commerce, Ray Potvin and Marlene Gile of Workforce Development, Paul Gilbert and David Witham of Job Service, Brian Stowell of the Regional Partnership, Dewaine Craig and George Krohne of NOVA, Jeff Kelcourse of Sunday River Ski Resort, Kathy Adams-Iller of LeCleric Management, Lois Ruff of Bethel Furniture Stock, and Rick Hoddinott of Ski Mt. Abram. The next meeting of the Planning Committee is on Wednesday, Sept. 6, at 3 p.m. at Telstar High School.

Anyone with suggestions or questions may contact Cathy Newell at 824-2780 or Brian Stowell at 826-2415.

THERE'S ALWAYS TOMALLEY
Bethel chefs Stephen Stone and Irv Skaff weren't among the winners in last Thursday's "Great Taste of Maine Lobster" Governor's Tasting competition, but they were two of the 10 finalists. The event was designed to link the lobster industry with the hospitality industry, as well as promote Maine's signature product. Chefs prepared their lobster specialties for judging by a panel of experts. The competition, held at the Blaine House in Augusta, was won by chef Christopher Russell of the Spruce Point Inn in Boothbay Harbor. Russell's winning recipe was "Summery Lobster Succotash." Here, Skaff serves up some of his "Summer in Maine Lobster Salad," as Sudbury sous chef Kelly Stone looks on.

Robert Cary
Dec. 30-1933 to Sept. 2, 1965

Thirty years ago you were called away and God knows why. Some times it seems like yesterday. Your memory is always with me in every season of the year, and only you and God can know that I still care.

A Most Heartfelt Thank You

"I was sick and you visited me" Mt. 25:36
Thank you for visiting me with your prayers and cards of encouragement. I received 247 cards during my stay at the hospital, and another 82 since coming home.

A special thanks to all who attended my benefit supper, and the workers, and cooks who made it such a success.

James 5:15 has these words "And their prayers if offered in faith, will heal him, for the Lord will make him well". I am doing well and in time expect a full recovery.

Thank You

Vance Jordan
